Re: Workload Review

The Parties recognize the importance of discussions regarding workload. Employees are encouraged to regularly discuss the manageability of their workloads with their Manager. Excessive workloads are of concern to Employees, the Employer, and the Union.

- Workload may be impacted by numerous factors, which may include seasonality, surge periods, staff shortages, increased demands, process improvements and efficiencies, or shifting priorities. Fluctuations in workload are normal and acceptable as long as they do not become excessive.
- The Workload Review Process is intended to address excessive work assigned by the Employer. Excessive workloads are systemic and unmanageable workloads that span extended periods of at least twenty (20) consecutive workdays.
- The Workload Review Process is not intended to prevent the Employer from assigning work or addressing performance management issues.
- Throughout the Workload Review Process, the parties involved will look for ways to improve processes, create efficiencies, and assess resources available to respond to workload issues.

An Employee or group of Employees shall have the right to file a written complaint regarding their workload.

Workload complaints shall be filed directly to the Manager, or designate, who shall meet with the Employee to discuss and resolve the specifics of the complaint. The Employee or group of Employees have the option to have Union representation with them in this meeting.

If the Manager and the Employee or group of Employees are unable to resolve the concern, the matter may be submitted in writing to the appropriate Dean/Director or designate within ten (10) workdays of receipt of the reply from the Manager. Dean/Director or designate shall meet with the Employee or group of Employees and the Union within ten (10) days of the concern being raised to discuss and resolve the concern. The Dean/Director or designate shall provide a reply in writing within ten (10) workdays of the meeting.

Any decisions deriving from workload discussions will be subject to Article 24 – Grievance Procedure up to level 2. The decision made at level 2 shall be final and binding.

This Letter of Understanding shall expire on June 29, 2024.
