ENVIRONMENTAL SERVICES

Taking care of Alberta's hospitals is not just a job. It's specialized work. It's a team effort.

I'm part of the environmental services team that keeps our hospitals clean and sanitized. We're the first line of defense against super-bugs and we're proud of the work we do. Things would shut down pretty quickly without us.

But the government wants AHS to fire us and bring in private companies to do the job. How clean do you think things will be when the private company cuts costs to make money? What happens when infection rates go up and hospitals become overwhelmed?

That's why the work we do is so important. Let's support each other and stand up for public services.
